FRANCE WITH EYE ON RHINE IMPATIENT AT BRITISH CURB

Poincare May Invoke War Machine To Punish Germans

U. S. AGAINST IT

America Also Backing L. George In Stand For Moderation

(Special To The China Press) Paris, Jan. 30.—There is widespread interest in the contest progressing between France and Great Britain. It is difficult for M. Poincare to see that he has a majority in the Chamber and that the President is with him.

Lloyd George and Poincare are far apart. There is a real test of strength between the spokesmen of Great Britain and France. M. Poincare will doubtless insist upon even punitive measures against Germany in the event of her failure to meet her reparations obligations, which may include the occupation of the Rhine or beyond, and the great war machine of France may again be invoked against the Germans. If this is done, resentment is certain in Great Britain, and Lloyd George has the backing of the United States also in his stand.

Whatever France will do in the face of this opposition is to be seen, but it is certain that France, represented by M. Poincare, is impatient at the curb which Lloyd George has placed on her desires for payment at any price.

The British and French interests do not run parallel, and it will be increasingly difficult for them to work in harmony. The British desire the composure and stability of the Continent, even though it involves a powerful and prosperous Germany. The slackening of British trade is the reason.

NOTE IS HOPEFUL
Paris, Jan. 30.—The Leger gives its opinion that the financial reform proposals embodied in the German note have a hopeful tone, and that the proposals are adopted. It is certain that Germany will improve her ability to pay, but the Allies seem always confronted by promises depending upon the good will of the Reichstag.

SHIPPING BOARD ALLOCATIONS ARE ABOUT COMPLETE

The allocation program of passenger liners to the Pacific Coast by the Shipping Board has been almost completed according to information just received in Shanghai.

Five passenger liners to Seattle for the trans-Pacific service, three passenger steamers to San Francisco for the Oriental trade, and three to Los Angeles for the Hawaii service have already been agreed upon by Chairman Lasker according to the information.

The question of the operation of the twenty-four army transports by private companies has not been settled yet.

AMERICA FACES FOOD DEFICIT, IS VIEW OF EXPERT

(Special To The China Press) Washington, Jan. 30.—Dr. E. Ball, director of scientific work for the Department of Agriculture, today told the National Agricultural Conference here that the United States is approaching a condition of adverse food balance and must decide whether to retain the proper ratio between agriculture and industry or permit the latter to dominate at the expense of the former.

"The situation demands the complete reorganization of national life," he said. A subcommittee of the conference on railroad transportation recommended a reduction in freight rates on farm products which would be borne by the roads and labor. The report declared that the railroads had made $600,000,000 profit last year while the farmers lost $7,000,000,000.

Prince Yamagata, Last Of Meiji Genro, Succumbs To His Long Illness In Tokio

Head Of Elder Statesmen Held Every Post Of War And Peace And Has Dictated Policy Of Japan Since 1898

(Reuter's Pacific Service) Tokio, Feb. 1.—Prince Yamagata died at 1:40 o'clock this afternoon.

PRINCE YAMAGATA

Prince Arimoto Yamagata, one of the most imposing figures of Japan's modern history, is the last of the Meiji Genro. Marquis Teruchi, and the late Marquis Okuma, and the Prince Field Marshal, with the late Mr. Hara, probably loomed largest in the pages of recent Japanese history.

In his 84th year, Yamagata still maintained an active interest in politics at home and abroad. Feeble in body, his mind was ever alert to new conditions and new movements and though he stood on the border of the past, he was a tremendous power in Japan, a maker and breaker of men and a power behind a throne.

Yamagata was not like Okuma, who boasted that he would live to be 125, nor as active as Teruchi. In late years he seldom stirred abroad, received visitors rarely and then only those of his own choosing. He was a solemn man, the type of the Meiji statesman.

As representative of Japan he attended the Coronation ceremony of Czar Nicholas and in 1896 brought home the Yamagata-Lobanow Convention in regard to Korea. He made two trips around the world. At the end of the Sino-Japanese war he visited New York.

In the war with China, Yamagata commanded the first army corps and obtained notable and decisive victories at Pingyang and Chien-ching and was about to march on Mukden when he was obliged to return to Hiroshima because of illness.

Yamagata was born at Hagii in Choshu, the son of Saburo Yamagata, a samurai of Choshu clan. He was educated by the famous patriot Shoin Yoshida, and gained fame early in life when he fought against the Shogunate army at the head of a cavalry battalion and utterly defeated his opponents. Later, as commander of the Echigo Division of the Imperial Forces, he took the castle of Nagaoka and marching North, subjugated entire districts of the On provinces.

In 1869 he made his first trip to Europe, returning to Japan in 1870. He was then made Junior and afterward senior Vice-Minister of War, was chief of staff in the Imperial Army during the civil war of 1877, was chief of the general staff the next year and in 1882 became Minister of Home Affairs.

He was created a viscount in 1884 and was again Minister of War in 1885 after serving as a member of the Coast Defense Committee. He was also Minister of Agriculture and Minister of Commerce.

In 1888 he went again to Europe after serving on the committee appointed the preceding year to investigate local administration. He was Prime Minister and Minister

Visiting Shriners' Party Sails For Manila Today

The delegation of Shriners from Seattle and other points in the States who have been in Shanghai since Monday, conducting the ceremonial which created seventy-one more members of the order in China and being extensively entertained by the local Oasis, leaves early this afternoon by the steamer Keystone State for Manila, where another big ceremonial and further entertainment will take place.

The last official item on the Shanghai program took place last night at the Astor House, where the entire visiting delegation, with their ladies, and all the China Shriners in town gathered for a grand ball which carried over until well into the morning. The affair was restricted to Shriners and their ladies but the crowd nonetheless reached proportions which comfortably filled the big Astor House ball room. Shriners costumes and Oriental decorations made the occasion a colorful one and one which was unanimously voted a fitting conclusion to the visitors' sojourn here.

Though the ball was the last official incident on the program, it is expected that many of the Seattle delegation will take advantage of the remaining time this morning to indulge in further sightseeing, under the guidance of local Shriners. They sail at 1 p.m. and members of Nomad Oasis will give them a send-off. They call here briefly on their return to the States.

Mr. W. F. Gallin, Jr., of Manila, a member of Nile Temple and also a member of Bamboo Oasis of Manila, greeted the Shriners here on behalf of the Manila Shriners and will return to the islands with them. He has called Manila that the Nile caravan will get under way today and arrangements have already been made in Manila to greet them in novel fashion.

Airplanes will soar over the Keystone State when the vessel nears Corregidor and will drop messages of welcome to the Shriners aboard. The Potentate and his party will be escorted to the Manila Hotel by the Nile Patrol at Manila and a band at the hotel Mayor Fernandez will greet them officially and turn the keys of the city over to them.

The parade on the day of the ceremonial will start at the Elks' Club, where The Great Unwashed will be prepared for their journey across the hot sands, and will then wend its way to the Manila Grand Opera House where the ceremonial will be held. The entertainment will continue in full blast until the Keystone State sails, the last feature being the Shriners Ball at the Manila Carnival.

Under the leadership of Mrs. Fred van Buskirk, the ladies of the Shriners' party are enjoying their visit in Shanghai and while the men were leading candidates across the burning sands and conducting mysterious meetings, their wives and daughters were out sightseeing.

Monday the ladies were guests at tea at the Astor House and in the evening enjoyed a dinner party given by the Admiral Line on the Keystone State.

Mrs. George Chaloner acted as toastmistress and short talks were made by Mrs. McKillup, Mrs. H. S. Dickerson, and Mr. Palmer. Mrs. T. C. White, formerly Princess Der Ling, gave the address of the evening and described the picturesque life of the court during the time of the Empress Dowager. Following this talk, which gave the women a glimpse into the colorful life of the court, the women went to a Chinese theater to see a play of ancient times in which the celebrated actor, Mow Yung Ko, appeared. The play was of Manchu days.

ARMY QUELLS CAIRO RIOTS; SLAYING 190, 1,000 INJURED

Fresh Disturbances, Met With Bullet Hail, Quickly End

(Special To The China Press) London, Jan. 31.—A dispatch from Rome reports that fresh disorders have broken out in Cairo, Egypt. One hundred and ninety have been killed and more than one thousand injured, the report says. Troops have quelled the uprising.

MAKE 21 ARRESTS
Cairo, Jan. 31.—Up to the present 21 arrests have been made in connection with the conspiracy to kill Sarwat Pasha.

"FOLLOW US"—FRANCE
(French Wireless through Reuter) Paris, Jan. 31.—Contrasting the attitude of France in Cilicia with that of Great Britain in Egypt, the Temps states that France, by evacuating Cilicia and claiming real independence for Turkey, has set an example in the reduction of military enterprises and in respecting the independence of the Muslim nation which has a great past. The paper is of the opinion that it would be to Britain's advantage to emulate the example of France.

108 ARRESTED
(Reuter's Service) Calcutta, Jan. 31.—The police dispersed a non-cooperation meeting here today, at which the speakers included Bengalee and Panjabee ladies. One hundred and eight men were arrested.

URGES INDIAN RULE
London, Jan. 31.—Sir Frederick Lugard, in a letter to The Times expresses the opinion that the extension of self-government is the best remedy for the present unrest in India and suggests that the boundaries of well-ordered and loyal states should be extended as largely as possible and native dynasties reinstated wherever possible.

This would not involve a reversal of policy and machinery. The Government of India Act would continue to operate, though the area to which it was applicable would gradually be curtailed while a Council of Princes might form the basis of a federation similar to that of Malaya.

SENT TO SEYCHELLES
(Reuter's Service) Cairo, Jan. 31.—Zaghoul Pasha and the other agitators are being deported to the Seychelles Islands, which is their final destination.

We Talk Same Language But Oh! How Differently

By Elsie McCormick

If the Disarmament Conference wanted to do something really worth while, it would gather citizens of all English-speaking lands together and synchronize their slang. For as long as a Britisher is "sacked" while an American is "fired," as long as a Londoner "goes up the pole," while an American "climbs on the water-wagon" the feeling of international fraternity will fall short of completeness.

Differences in the two national vocabularies become as conspicuous in the Far East as an evening gown at a prayer-meeting. These contrasts appear not only in slang, but among words that are presumably respectable dwellers in the dictionary.

There are certain Americans who claim that a complete British conversation can be built from the verbal bricks of "Really," "Quite," and "Only fancy!" and there are Britishers who say that the only essentials for an American dialogue are "Huh?" and "Uh-huh." Probably the American system of conversing by means of modulated grunts is a legacy of the Cherokees or the unloquacious Mohicans. Personally, we rise to remark that we never realized the possibilities in the single monosyllable of "Oh" until we heard it manipulated by our national cousins. It is usually said to music and the meaning varies with each tone of the scale. Practice in the art of using this economical monosyllable is a favorite recreation at strictly American dinner-parties.

EVEN LINGERIE DEFERS
We know of an international household which solved its linguistic difficulties by tying a note-book to the leg of the dining-room table and using it as an American-British dictionary. Thus the American contingent learned that a "ragging" is the same thing as a "calling-down," that "candy" in England consists only of hard, striped confections of the "all-day-sucker" variety, and that "boots" are not necessarily the foot-gear worn by hunters and fishermen. The British side of the house discovered that "pavements" are likewise "sidewalks" and also learned many strange designations for a dollar, such being for instance "cartwheel," "stomelon," "kopeck," "one bone" and "one berry." In the beginning neither could read a laundry-list prepared by the other, but a comparison of garments led finally to a fair degree of intelligibility. One of the early discoveries of the British-American etymologists is that "pulling a leg" in England means "stringing" a person, while in the United States it implies extracting money from an unwilling bankroll, usually for the purposes of extravagant adornment. Thus father has his leg pulled by daughter who has just read an advertisement of one of the French shops or who has learned that opalescent sequins are at the height of their shimmering glory. THE "GAY-OL" JAIL

Once, when we played the mob in a high-school rendering of "The Merchant of Venice," a teacher who had come in contact with British culture by wearing Oxford and drinking English breakfast tea insisted that Nerissa was a "clerk." This piece of heresy almost split the Dramatic Club in twain, but a tactful actress got around the difficulty by pronouncing the word "clerk" and saying "clerk" immediately afterwards so that the audience would know what she was talking about. Since then we have become somewhat inured to "clarks," though we have never succeeded in reading "gaol" without the mental pronunciation of "gay-ol." Somehow we have always pictured a "gaol" as a pleasant little place with white curtains in the windows and red geraniums in the courtyard. Strange indeed to ears that first opened south of Canada are the British terms of affection. A lady designated by an admiring suitor as an "old thing" would pick up the nearest piece of bric-a-brac and lay it as ungenially as possible on the suitor's north-eastern architecture. A man told by a bantering friend that he was a "silly ass" would loosen the bonds of friendship and the speaker's front teeth with one and the same gesture. A girl whose beau proposed to her with the words, "Well, old scream, how about it?" would give one startled jump and ring up the Fire Department. The fact that "old chap" and "old top," once similarly regarded, are now good Americanese leads one to predict that perhaps someday when a suitor calls his "ame" "old thing" she will lean her marble vase against his hounifere and ask him when he first began to love her. That day, however, is at present.

CHINA WILL ACCEPT THE COMPROMISE ON SHANTUNG, IS BELIEF

Still Insists That Japan Should Have Only Assistant Traffic Manager, But Is Now Held Certain Will Meet Demand Of Nipponese For Appointment Of Chief Traffic Head

BETTER TAKE IT, WANG TELLS SZE

Now Await Formal Announcement—Two Plenary Sessions Planned To Finish Far Eastern And Naval Questions—End Of Conference Is Near

(Trans-Pacific Public Ledger—Exclusive To The China Press)

Washington, Feb. 1.—It is now regarded as certain that China will accept the compromise proposals in the Shantung controversy, giving Japan a share in the management of the railway. Outwardly, the Chinese are insisting that Japan must be content with an assistant traffic manager, but it is understood that they are willing to waive this point, and let Japan be associated in the management of the railroad, or even name the chief traffic officer.

Wang Chung-hui held out against this concession at first, and Minister Sze is not yet convinced that he ought to yield. Wang has persuaded him, however, that this is the most that China can hope to get at present, and that in the event of the failure of the present negotiations China would not be likely to get as good a chance again.

The final word has not yet been said, but the feeling here is that the issue is settled, and that a formal announcement will be made Monday when the drafting committee meets to draft the treaties.

Two plenary sessions are now anticipated, one on the naval questions and another on Far Eastern issues. The latter, it is expected, will come Thursday or Friday, after which the adjournment of the conference will be only a matter of days.

President Harding plans to send the treaties to the Senate immediately after the Conference adjourns and he is confident they will be ratified without difficulty.

GENOA PARLEY MAY GO OVER UNTIL ALLIES GET TOGETHER

French Hold View That Other Problems Have Prior Claims

(Reuter's Service) Washington, Jan. 31.—The formal announcement of the Sino-Japanese settlement regarding Shantung will probably be withheld until tomorrow, when, it is expected, Mr. Balfour and Secretary Hughes will make a statement.

(Reuter's Service) Washington, Jan. 30.—The basis of the Shantung settlement is understood to have been a plan, supported by President Harding, providing that China should pay for the Tientsin-Tsinan railway in Treasury notes and that Japanese experts should be retained in the operating personnel during the period of payment. It is announced that the delegates will meet again tomorrow to work out the remaining details.

Dr. Wellington Koo stated that a final and definite settlement would be announced before tomorrow evening.

The Japanese delegates have declined to comment on the position but said: "Considerable progress has been made on the basis suggested by our friends, Mr. Balfour and Mr. Hughes."

(Special To The China Press) Peking, Feb. 1.—It is understood unofficially that the government favors accepting the Shantung proposals framed by the American and British delegations at Washington.

COMPROMISE OFFER
Washington, Jan. 30.—Taking a direct hand in the negotiations for the first time, President Harding has urged the Chinese to accept the latest Japanese compromise offer on the Shantung Railroad. It is understood that the suggestion has been cabled to Peking for instructions.

President Harding approached the Chinese after the Japanese indicated their willingness to accept the good offices of America. According to the compromise offer of Japan, China will purchase the road with treasury notes payable at China's option within five to fifteen years. China is to receive possession of the railway, but will permit the retention of a Japanese traffic manager and accountant.

LENIN TO ATTEND
(Special To The China Press) London, Jan. 31.—A dispatch from Rome states that Lenin has telegraphed the Italian foreign office that he will attend the Genoa conference.

LONDON IS RESTLESS
(Trans-Pacific News Service Exclusive To The China Press) Washington, Jan. 31.—London, according to reports reaching Washington, is showing signs of restlessness because of the apparent reversion to the old style diplomacy as practiced by Poincare. Yesterday the French ambassador and Lord Curzon held a conference, the nature of which was not revealed to the press.

This and other signs of a willingness, if not a determination to return to the old order of things is causing quite a flare-up of British public opinion, some of the newspapers being quite outspoken against the French. The British belief that America is holding aloof from the proposed Genoa conference because of France's attitude further irritates the British.

At the same time the French appear by no means satisfied with the British attitude, and there is considerable feeling against the British-Belgian alliance on the ground that it indicates a policy of continental aggression on the part of England.

NAVAL TREATY TERMS
(Reuter's Service) Washington, Jan. 31.—Article XIX of the Naval Treaty stipulates that no alterations in the fortifications of naval bases shall be made in the Pacific Islands belonging to the United States at present or in the future or in those of Hongkong or Britain's present or future insular possessions in the Pacific, east of the meridian of 110 degrees east longitude.

The Japanese possessions are as follows: The Kurile, Bonin and Loochoo islands, Amamiyoshima, Formosa and the Pescadores and territories hereafter acquired.

Exceptions are: (1), The Hawaiian Islands and islands adjacent to the coast of the United States, Alaska and the Panama Canal zone, not including the Aleutians, and (2), the islands adjacent to Canada, also Australia and its territories and New Zealand.

FIFTEEN YEAR PEACE (Special To The China Press)

Washington, Jan. 30.—American authorities today declared that the fortifications agreement is highly satisfactory in that, in combination with the agreement on the reduction of capital ships, it calls in and proclaims a reign of peace on the Pacific for fifteen years at least. The fortifications settlement, they say, ends all war-like preparations in the Pacific.

There is some criticism over the American submission in the matter of the Aleutian Islands, which group the naval authorities insisted on fortifying. It is understood that Admiral Baron Kato made a hard fight against the American proposals.

CANTONESE REPORTS (Reuter's Pacific Service)

Canton, Feb. 1.—Dr. Lo Wenkan has returned to Canton and has reported to Dr. Wu Ting-fang on the Washington Conference. He says that the delegates lived in different quarters and that most of the business was done by Alfred Sze and Wellington Koo. The advisors were not kept informed with events, and Mr. Ma Soo was compelled to act as intermediary. The advisors were angry and were constantly stirring up trouble.

At the suggestion of Britain and America Alfred Sze proposed ten conditions opposing secret negotiations. This was done without the knowledge of the advisors such as Admiral Tsai Ting-kan. It was learned later that Sze and Koo had agreed with Britain, America and Japan that a Far Eastern Commission should be appointed.

This, the advisors fear, was the first step towards international control and because of it Dr. Philip T'yan, the chief secretary, tendered his resignation.

Since they had to look after their own interests, Britain and America could not very well help China.

Later Sze and Koo at the Conference did nothing but obey the orders of Britain and America. They had three reasons for so doing.

They evidently thought that the expressed wishes of the people were nonsense and there was no need to take heed of them, following the precedent of Yuan Shih-kai. Sze, speaking of the people, was known to have said, "There is no such thing as the wish of the people in China."

They had to protect their own positions as Ministers to foreign countries.

They had received secret instructions from Peking. Owing, however, to opposition on the part of the South, and the activities of David Yui and Monlin Chiang, and of the Chinese in America, Sze and Koo were compelled to recede somewhat from their lofty position.

Chinese Girls At 30 Shillings Each Is Shock To London

London, Jan. 31.—The Salvation Army have bought 100 girls in China from their parents at 30 shillings each.

This startling announcement was made at Westminster today by General Booth, who explained that he had instructed this measure with the object of saving them from a life of shame.

The local officers had desired to buy more girls in the famine districts, but the cost of maintenance was too great. His intention was to train these girls in Salvationist work so that they would become energetic workers among their own people.

Twenty Indian girls were present at the meeting, from the Salvationist Industrial Home in India, where, General Booth said, the army intended to develop its work among children.

Chicago, Jan. 31.—Mrs. Marion Stephens, who is estimated to be worth $40,000,000, has arranged to marry a Russian workman, named Vanslatsky, who is employed at a factory in Philadelphia.

It is reported that they will subsequently reside, in compliance with his desire, in the factory district near the works.

The romance began in Paris, where the lady was impressed by the stirring war stories told by M. Vanslatsky, who served with Koltchak's army in Siberia.

China Medical Association Opens Biennial Conference

With about forty Chinese and foreign doctors in attendance, both men and women, from many parts of China, the fourth biennial conference of the National Medical Association of China was opened yesterday morning at the Y.M.C.A. Other delegates, who have been delayed in reaching Shanghai or were prevented from attending yesterday by the inclement weather, are expected to be present for today's sessions. Among those on hand yesterday were representatives from Canton, Kukiens, Chekiang, Chihli, Hunan, Hupeh, Kiangsu and Manchuria.

When the delegates had all registered they assembled in Martyn's Memorial Hall, where the president of the Association, Dr. C. Yungping Yui, delivered the presidential address, "A Retrospect of Our Past Year's Work."

He expressed great pride in the progress made by the Association since its inception in 1914 and voiced a firm hope in future advances, now that more and more young Chinese are taking up the study of medicine and helping to spread the gospel of health education among the people. The prospect, he declared, is now brighter than at any time during the past ten years.

Other papers read included one on "Further Notes on the New Organism Found in the Blood," by Dr. C. H. Lei of Tientsin; one on "The Problem of Trachoma in China," by Dr. T. M. Li of Peking, and one on fibroid tumors of the uterus by Dr. P. K. Liang.

Dr. Li's address on trachoma contained much of interest, showing the great prevalence of the disease in this country. A percentage of 70 had been found, he said, among schoolboys in a Peking orphanage while 65 percent of the outpatients treated by the Union Medical College at Peking registered affliction from the disease. Any public health work undertaken in China, the speaker stated, must include the problem of trachoma in its program.

DR. WOO SPEAKS

At 5:30 p.m. Dr. S. M. Woo, of the National Health Council, delivered an address on "Public Health in China," bringing out many important points which must come up for consideration in this line. Following this the delegates were entertained at dinner at the Yih Kar Cheun Restaurant on Foochow Road.

A very important and interesting feature of the present conference is the display of exhibits, installed in the boys' hall at the Y.M.C.A., which includes medical books, medical and surgical supplies and the like. Among the firms exhibiting are Messrs. Edwards Evans and Son, the Chinese-American Publishing Company, exhibiting books; Burroughs and Wellcome, the American Drug Company, Ayrtton Saunders and Co., Allen and Hanbury, the Commercial Press, Andersen, Meyer and Co., Parke-Davis and Co., the International Dispensary, Eli Lilly and Co. and others displaying drugs, instruments and appliances.

Another interesting display is composed of pictures taken during the last serious outbreak of pneumonic plague, which were taken by the expert on this disease, Dr. Wu Lien-teh, of Harbin, who is attending the conference. Today's program includes talks in the morning by Dr. C. V. Yui on "The Importance of Adopting a Uniform Medical Nomenclature," by Dr. Joseph L. King on "The Duties of a Physician," by Dr. E. S. T'yan on "The Treatment of Asiatic Schistosomiasis," and by Dr. Peter C. Kiang on "The Substitute Treatment of Diabetes Mellitus in China." These papers will all be read during the morning session, which begins at 9 o'clock. After lunch the delegates will indulge in sightseeing and at 5:30 there will be another lecture of public interest on health problems.

RAILS FOR JAPAN

(Reuter's Service)

New York, Jan. 4.—The first large steel export contract of the year—13,000 tons of rails for the Japanese Government—was announced today by the United States Steel Products Company.

The rails will be manufactured at the Ensley plant of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company, the largest southern subsidiary of the United States Steel Corporation.

Officials of the United States Steel Corporation declined to make public the selling price. The domestic schedule for steel rails was reduced several months ago to $46 per ton, which would make the total $520,000, but trade circles believe a lower price was made to the Japanese.

for Home Affairs in 1889, was made a full general in 1890 and Minister of Justice in 1892. He was president of the Privy Council in 1893. Then came the war with China when Yamagata became even more famous. He had held practically every position of importance in civil and military life in Japan, and now won honors in the field, honors to be repeated in the Russo-Japanese war, when Yamagata was chief of the general staff.

He was Prime Minister again in 1898 and President of the Privy Council in 1905. Fifteen years ago he was made a Prince and awarded the first class of the Golden Kite. He also was made a field marshal, supreme military councillor, president of the Privy Council and was a holder of the Grand Cordon.

He is the third great Japanese to die within a few months, an assassin taking Premier Hara's life, and Marquis Okuma, a lifelong friend of Yamagata, dying recently.

GRANTED STATE FUNERAL

(Eastern News Agency)

Tokio, Feb. 1.—It is unofficially decided that the funeral of the late Prince Yamagata will be carried out in a form of State funeral. The remains will be removed from Odawara to Tokio and buried in the grave yard of Gokokuji temple at Otowa.

Together with Mr. Quintin Paredes, former Secretary of Justice, Mr. Quezon plans to practice law in Manila under the firm name of Quezon and Paredes.

Strike Agitators And Men Who Wont Work Must Go

(Reuter's Pacific Service)
Hongkong, Feb. 1.—The proclamation issued by the Secretary for Chinese Affairs says that interference with those outside the Guild will be dealt with by banishment. Agitators and men who refuse to work may be asked to leave the Colony.

SOLDIERS AND POLICE
Hongkong, Feb. 1.—The Secretary for Chinese Affairs has issued a proclamation to the effect that the strike is a matter concerning the Seamen's Union alone. The Government has offered to arbitrate and see justice done on both sides. In the matter of wages the shippers accepted arbitration, but the seamen refused. The Government now proposes to take a strong line and to refuse to permit interference by others without consent.

The continuance and extension of the strike are seriously affecting shipping. The tallymen have now come out in sympathy with the seamen and incoming cargoes cannot be landed.

The Togo Kisen Kaisha has announced that owing to the strike of cargo coolies and lightermen, cargoes, except treasure, arriving on board the ss. Tenyo Maru cannot be discharged. The P. and O. S. N. Co. has notified the consignees of cargo from the ss. Kashgar that it is being carried on to Shanghai.

Assiduous attempts to influence the Chinese clerks and boys in the employ of the shipping companies to join the strike have so far been unsuccessful.

General conditions have become worse and a prolonged closing of the ship owners last evening failed to result in any new line of action of five soldiers each, with fixed bayonets have reinforced the police patrolling the water front and the Chinese business quarters.

Steam launches are bringing in vegetables and other fresh supplies.

Exports from the vicinity were not interfered with while they discharged at the wharves.

DESTROYER TAKES MAILED
Hongkong, Feb. 1.—By the courtesy of the Commander, the mails for Amoy were despatched this morning on board the American destroyer Hart.

NAB-INTIMIDATORS HERE
Three Chinese will appear in the Mixed Court today charged with intimidating shipping agents here who were trying to enlist sailors in the Hongkong district to replace striking crews at Hongkong.

Since the Hongkong strike took on its present serious aspect efforts have been made here to secure crews for various of the ships held up by the walk-out and it was while endeavoring to secure such labor that the trio were taken into custody by Detective Inspector Reeves. They had made threats to a number of shipping agents in the Hongkong district.

Word received here by shipping companies yesterday carried little hope for the early settlement of the seamen's strike and the local Chinese press printed reports of the tie-up spreading to other ports, particularly to Swatow, where, it is claimed, the Shanghai-Swatow trade is threatened.

TRY TO BREAK TIE-UP

The Pacific Mail, Admiral Line and other shipping companies are making strong efforts to offset the success of the Chinese seamen's cessation of work by bringing Filipino crews to Hongkong to take out their ships.

Four of the Pacific Mail boats plying on the Calcutta run have been thus manned and have sailed from the Colony. Four Admiral Line ships, the Cadaretta, Glymont, Lake Onawa and Lake Farar, have also sailed with Filipino crews. The Admiral Line steamer Bay State was unable to unload 500 tons of cargo at Hongkong because of the dock workers' sympathy strike and sailed Tuesday for Manila. She will call at Hongkong on her return trip and, if still unable to unload, will bring the cargo to Shanghai.

Both the Pacific Mail and the Admiral Line have announced that unless the dock coolies resume work within the next few days they will import Filipino cargo handlers to work their cargo.

The T. K. K. steamer, Siberia Maru, which carries a Japanese crew and is thus unaffected, sailed from Hongkong Tuesday for Shanghai.

Merkuloff Plans Big Confiscation

(Delta News Agency)
Harbin, Jan. 26.—Merkuloff has ordered the confiscation of the entire property of the Vladivostok Department of the Centrosolus, accusing it of being a branch of the All-Russian Association of Co-operative Societies in Moscow. No claims of private people or institutions whose interests have suffered in consequence of the confiscation will be considered.

CALLS SECRET SESSION
Harbin, Jan. 26.—On January 20 Merkuloff called a secret session of the Right Wing of his People's Assembly. At the session Merkuloff's attempts to get the consent of the majority of the Right Wing for reconvening his People's Assembly failed. The delegates demanded an explanation of the Japanese loan to Merkuloff and the Japanese participation in the Habarovsk offensive. Merkuloff completely refused to answer these questions.

WORK vs. GRAFT
In Australia, "to graft" means "to work"; in America, it means to live without working. We can imagine the reactions of a hard-working individual designated by an admiring Australian as a "grafter." No doubt the punctuation of the sentence would be an exclamation point in the form of an ambulance-gong.

In school circles an American "hunks" and a Britisher is "plucked." The latter phrase grew out of the ancient Oxford custom of causing candidates for degrees to pass two benches occupied by tradesmen of the town when going to the platform to receive their diplomas. The butcher, baker or candlestick-maker to whom the student owed money had the right to pluck at his gown as he passed by. If shroffs could be seated on either side of the Carlton entrance as the dancers went in, we venture that many of them would be plucked into requiring the services of a barrel.

While China may not seem the most hopeful place in the world for the eventual meeting of East and West, it is at least the stage-setting for the amalgamation of British and American peculiarities of speech. More than one citizen of the United States has felt a flash of gratitude for the acquisition of "Cheerio!" "old top," and "swank," and we have heard a few subjects of the British Empire venturing a hesitating remark on the subject of telling the "cock-eyed world."

Only the other day we heard of a British lady who caught a train after a mad dash, sank into a seat, and remarked pleasantly to her obviously American traveling companions, "Well, my goat nearly got next to me that time, didn't it?"

SALT REVENUES NO LONGER HELD BY CHINESE NAVY

Salt revenues which have been held up for the past several weeks by the Chinese Navy no longer are to be interfered with as formal announcement has been issued by the Commander, Vice Admiral Chiang Tsen, that the salt seizure that was being carried out by various units of the Chinese Navy is to be abandoned.

The move to take over the salt revenues was made because the pay of the whole navy personnel was more than six months in arrears. Seven warcraft were moved from the various stations they had been holding to a point near Chinkiang which is the great trans-shipment center of all salt shipments from the north to the upper Yangtze.

CAUSES DISTRESS

The arrival of these warcraft had the effect of halting all movement of salt shipments with heavy consequent distress to salt merchants and all others engaged in the traffic.

It is to be gathered from Vice Admiral Chiang's announcement that the Navy has yielded in the matter as a result of action taken by Tuchen Chi Shih-yuan of Kiangsu who is taking measures to see that the men of the Navy receive their pay.

THE OFFICIAL NOTICE

A translation of the notice issued by Vice Admiral Chiang and his staff to the newspapers of Shanghai is as follows:

"The holding up of the salt boats at Shinkiu by the Chinese Fleet was prompted by no other motive than the object of getting payment for the naval men. General Chi, the Military Governor of Kiangsu, who bears in mind the distressed condition of the laborers and the unemployed owing to the approach of the lunar year-end, has repeatedly requested the release of the salt boats for the time being and at the same time promised to undertake the responsibility of making representations to the Government in the hope of attaining an amicable settlement.

"We, therefore, fully realizing the situation of the merchants and the kind intention of the General, have accordingly released today the salt boats detained and have at the same time instructed the Fleet to leave the place for duty elsewhere so that the salt traffic may be resumed and general order restored to the merchants and laborers.

"The above notice is hereby given for the information of the general public.

"The Admiralty House, Chinese Republican Navy."

MARINE "SELLS" ASIATIC FLEET FOR $10,000 (MEX.)

Who is the member of the marine corps who dressed himself in the full dress uniform of an admiral of the navy and then "sold" the $30,000,000 United States Asiatic fleet to Chinese revolutionists for $10,000 in Mexican money?

This is a question that is asked in a singular report which is published in a recent issue of the San Francisco Chronicle and in the course of the report other questions of the same queer sort are asked. The article in question continues:

Who is the marine who contracted with the Russian soviet government for the sale of 10,000 O. D. army shirts and collected $500 in gold as a retainer?

SEARCH FOR FUGITIVE These are the questions for which the marine corps intelligence department is seeking an answer in its efforts to apprehend one of the most remarkable criminals in the history of the service. Telegrams have been dispatched to marine officials throughout California warning them to be on the lookout for one "Private Hoppe, U. S. M. C." who, it is believed, will be able to answer the perplexing questions. He is said to be in California.

According to the marine report, Private Hoppe was stationed with the marine detachment of the Asiatic fleet during the World war. He is said to have one day taken possession of an admiral's full dress uniform and then set out for adventure.

SELLS ASIATIC FLEET His first victims, according to the official complaint, were the high officials of a revolutionary gunboat anchored on the Whangpoo river at Shanghai.

With great pomp, it is said, he boarded the vessel, representing himself as the commander in chief of the American navy, and expressed his desire to dispose of the Asiatic fleet in order to establish more friendly relations with China. He succeeded.

SHENKOLAND, OUTSIDER, WINS CHAMPIONS RACE AT KIANGWAN MEETING

Every Favorite But One Is Beaten In Day Of Muddy Racing

It was a day of upsets, a romping home of outsiders yesterday at the Champions Day meeting of the International Recreation Club at Kiangwan. But one of the public's choices cashed. Prices ran as high as $152 to win, a sum which was paid twice, and another at $124 for a place, down to second choice figures. The winner of the Champions itself was an outsider, Shenkoland, at $46.70, third choice to Lechfield and Old Bill.

The feature race was all to Shenkoland, from the first jump-off. The little grey pony took off in the lead with Bright Polly, Tyneside and Old Bill leading the pack close behind. He set the pace through the mud and slush to the wire. Lechfield, the favorite, got off to a poor start last but one to Darting. In the running in the back stretch Old Bill fell off to nowhere; Lechfield came up, and from the straightaway to the last jump made a brave bid for the race. Day's pony however was strong enough to last, and with clever handling by A. N. Dallas managed to win out by a length and a half.

There was not the usual Champions interest in yesterday's big race at Kiangwan. The crowd was not large, due to the rain, and was not in speculative or talkative mood due to the wet and muddy underfoot. Old Bill appeared to have the greatest support among those who voiced their views beforehand. Lechfield, however, when the tickets were counted ranked as the popular choice over the Camox pony, with Social Union in third favor.

Aside from Lechfield's strong run from the far rear to a close challenge for a win in the Champions yesterday sport had little racing interest. With ponies and riders coming in all brown in mud so that it was impossible to distinguish them until well toward the finish. The day soon became one of mere betting, watching the boards to see who won, then figuring how much the ticket would pay.

The ninth race was the biggest payoff of the day. First place, Tower Bridge paid $152.10, and third place went well over the century mark when National Union came in at $124.30. Respective in the fourth also paid $152.10. Other prices ran down from $65, and $61 and $46 to $24. Crowborough, in the first race was the only favorite to cash. Great Western, second choice ran second, but third position went to Slander, a pony that had but few supporters.

SHANGHAI RUGBY TEAM WON THRO' BIG SNOW STORM

(China Press Correspondence)

Hankow, February 1.—It is the consensus of opinion here that Shanghai had a better rugby team for the Interport battle than did Hankow. The game yesterday did not give full evidence of the Shanghai strength and undoubtedly the visitors were bothered by the snow and slippery field.

Shanghai won 13-0 and would have piled up a larger score had their backs been able to keep their feet. Their hard tackling and excellent dodging were in evidence despite the blinding snowstorm and the visitors gave every evidence of excellent coaching and hard practice for the game.

Hankow will visit Shanghai next China New Year.

It is hoped to play the Interport hockey game today although weather conditions will prevent good play on either side.

Two Basketball Games On Tonight

The Shanghai American School and the Fearon Daniel fives in the Shanghai Foreign-basketball league meet tonight on the Y. M. C. A. floor at 8 o'clock, while Bears visit Shanghai College at Yangtse-poo for a second game.

Tomorrow matches are scheduled between the "Y" team and Anderson Meyer at 5:30 o'clock and the American Trading Co. and the Bowditch at 6:30, both at the Rowing Club.

Anderson Meyer has about dropped out of the league and may not fill their date. It is possible however that the Wilmington team will fill in friendly games instead of the league matches. The Navy team has been practicing every morning at the "Y" for more than a week and are in fair shape to play, in spite of the loss of Lewis Welsh and Frick. The athletic officer of the Wilmington has applied for entrance into the league, either as a regular member, or to fill the open dates in friendly matches. The navy is keen to play and may be seen again soon on Shanghai floors.

Penn State Quarterback Signs With Yankees

Glenn Killinger, the star quarterback of the Penn State football eleven, has been signed up by the New York Yankees as third baseman of that team. When Glenn was not playing football on his team he was covering the third bag for his college team. It has not yet been decided whether he will report for Spring training at New Orleans or join the Yankees after graduation from Penn State in June.

CHINA NEW YEAR GOLF CUP GOES TO EXTRA HOLES

Reverend W. P. Roberts, one of the Shanghai Interport team won the China New Year Cup and the Race Course championship Tuesday in one of the most remarkable golf championship matches ever played in Shanghai.

Rev. Roberts defeated J. B. Ferrier after the pair had twined. Each made the 36 holes in 154 and nine more holes were agreed upon. Roberts came in in 41. But so did Ferrier, and they arranged to play one hole. Roberts dropped the ball in three with Ferrier scoring a four.

Conditions of play were pretty miserable, the players in the afternoon being bothered particularly by the condition of the greens, heel marks making it very difficult to put accurately.

Captain Barrett and O. H. Blackburn tied for third with a 172 score. J. Oswald had a card of 175 and W. J. Hawkings made 176.

The pool was won by L. Bliss, with a 77 (95-18).

Notre Dame Men Barred From Sports

South Bend, Ind. Jan. 31.—Eight students at Notre Dame University, the famous Catholic school with an equally famous football team, today confessed to athletic authorities at the school that they had played semi-professional football at Taylorville, Indiana. The Director of Athletics immediately disqualified them from further athletics in college.

Harriers Run 4 Miles In Mud

Over 20 runners arranged in 3 packs turned out for Saturday's training run over a 4 mile course. The going was heavy and after Van Hook and Waters had led nearly the whole of the way Rose broke through in fine style at the finish arriving home first.

The team race was a very close one, the vice-captain's team defeating the Captain's by 1 point only. The following were the first nine to finish:

G. Rose, 1st; H. Waters, 2nd; G. O. Van Hook, 3rd; J. S. Mears, 4th; C. Fisher, 5th; H. Atkinson, 6th; G. Cox, 7th; V. Cooke, 8th; T. McKenna, 9th.

The winner's time was 30 minutes. Willard W. Bartlett acted as starter and timekeeper.

WORLD'S TEN BEST GOLF PLAYERS SELECTED BY POPULAR QUESTIONNAIRE

Barnes, Duncan, Ray Choice Of Americans And Britons Alike

BY JOHN G. ANDERSON

Who are the ten best playing golfers in the world? With this thought in mind, therefore, we sent out a brief questionnaire to five golfers having knowledge of playing strength and to five British players, two amateurs and three professionals, but to none who might be included in the list.

The results show those who secured the highest votes out of a total selection of seventeen golfers. The list follows:

James Barnes, Joe Kirkwood, James Braid, Abe Mitchell, George Duncan, Edward Ray, Arthur Havers, Harry Vardon, Walter Hagen, Jock Hutchison, Alex Herd.

There was a tie at five votes each for four players, which necessitated the inclusion of one more than the asked for ten.

THREE CHOICES UNANIMOUS

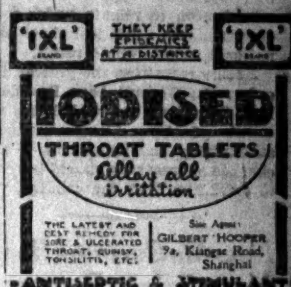

Of the lot three golfers only were the unanimous choice of ten selectors. Barnes, Duncan and Ray were on every sheet. Barnes and Duncan have been the open and match play champions of their respective countries, while Ray has been the open champion of both the United States and Great Britain. While performances further back than a few years were not to be considered, Ray's all round ability in every tourney he enters made his unanimous inclusion almost a foregone conclusion.

Abe Mitchell was the only golfer to secure nine votes, one of the voters leaving him off the list because he did not play through at Washington, so he wrote, although it would seem that Mitchell's three big wins in Britain before coming to this side might have turned the tables. But in any event he was not on every list.

Two golfers were on eight lists—Harry Vardon and Joe Kirkwood. It may be recalled that in fifteen tourneys in Great Britain Kirkwood had a grand average of 74.13 a round, while in match play golf he was runner up twice. All five of the Britons put Joe in the list, although he was placed at the bottom of the American selections as if he were the last choice. Vardon did very

LIANG'S LEAVE IS EXTENDED; CHANG ISSUES CIRCULAR

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Feb. 1.—The Cabinet situation is still obscure. Liang Shih-chang remains at Tientsin and refuses to resume his duties, but the President's extension of his leave to ten days is taken as an indication that his retirement is not yet certain.

A circular telegram issued by General Chang Tso-lin, while not stating that he will actively support Liang, hints that the latter's removal would not improve the situation. While disavowing any personal interest in Liang, General Chang points out that the administrative and financial problems which were most acute prior to General Chin Yung-peng's retirement were on the point of solution when Mr. Liang was charged with the betrayal of his country over Shantung and his labors interrupted.

The circulation of this charge, the telegram continues, was justifiable if true, but if untrue would be a lie. While preferring not to express his opinion with regard to the present administration, General Chang asks what the President would do if another Premier were appointed and attacked as a traitor to his country. In his opinion, it would be impossible for a fresh administration to remain under such circumstances. Political chaos and national suicide would result.

Keenly regretting the present disorder, the General begs President Hsu Shih-chang to publish an account of Mr. Liang Shih-chang's stewardship and volunteers, if the charges of treachery should be true, to drive him from the country.

New McCormick Book Now Being Prepared

The second edition of Miss Elsie McCormick's "The Unexpurgated Diary of a Shanghai Baby" is now on sale at leading bookstores and in the office of the CHINA PRESS. Owing to a less expensive binding than that used in the first printing, the book retails at two dollars a copy. Another book by Miss McCormick, compiled from articles that have already appeared in THE CHINA PRESS and dealing with such miscellaneous subjects as, singing girls, tramps, Chinese music, pig gin, English pagodas, the local dance craze and many other topics, is under preparation and will appear in a few weeks. Both books are being issued by the Chinese-American Publishing Company.

little the last season and sentiment probably aided in his choice, as every Britisher put him on with two Americans leaving him off. But no sentiment was needed to secure six votes for Alex. Herd, although but one vote came from this side, his age rather than his deeds probably being better known.

In a tie with five votes are James Braid, Walter Hagen, Jock Hutchison, Arthur Havers, whose grand average all last year in Great Britain in the twenty-five biggest open medal play events was 74.14. Strange to say, not a single vote was given by an American to this Lancashire pro, who is right on the heels of the topnotchers in the golfing world. Had he been seen in exhibitions on this side we believe that he would have been a unanimous choice. But there they are, and a right good list, too, which we would not care to improve upon. There were scattershot votes for Roger Wethered and Bob Jones, the only amateurs mentioned; for Taylor, Kerrigan, Wingate, Maasy and Holland, each one with certain claims worth considering.

As we look over the list certain things in common are noted. Barnes, Braid, Havers, Duncan, Ray, Vardon, Hagen and Kirkwood are nearer being considered tall than of medium height, with Abe Mitchell and Sandy Herd in that class and Hutchison on the short side. Height, therefore, ought to be an asset for good golf, with an occasional victor found in the short stature player. Hilton and Travers, with many championships between them, help to bring hope and comfort to those who cannot look above the heads of the crowd.

Of the lot seven use cleek putters and the others the aluminum head. Scientific analysis seems to prove that the chances for slight error is greater in cleek putters than with the other kinds of clubs used to get the ball into the hole, but there is a more friendly feeling toward a cleek putter, so those golfers say, and they have won in spite of the error obstacle no fewer than fifty big open championship contests. To secure unusual notice it is essential that a player, especially one of championship aspirations, be exceedingly proficient in one special club. Vardon has long been noted for his perfect cleek work; he has fallen off greatly in this respect of late, but with the thought in mind could easily surpass the other cleek shot makers of the day. Ray is famed for long, wild drives and a high, thuddy niblick shot carrying unheard of distances.

Abe Mitchell has the wallop and yet restrains his powers to get direction from the tee, he is the greatest two handed hitter in existence, the Dempsey of the links. Kirkwood is noted for uncommonly straight driving and placing, Hutchison for backstop mangle skill, Herd and Duncan as the supreme exponents of spoon shot play, and Braid for the long iron to the green and the exceptional distance secured from the rough. Barnes and Hagen to date have not been blessed with the compliment of some particular excellence; with them low scoring is the result of all around goodness and ability which is seldom exhibited in a half way measure.

My Own Report No. 2

By John Hsu

(Mr. Hsu attended the Washington Disarmament Conference as staff correspondent of THE CHINA PRESS and THE EVENING STAR. He was also a special correspondent for the New York Herald, the Baltimore Sun and the San Francisco Chronicle. In this series of articles being written by him since his return from the United States, he gives to readers the first record of a Chinese journalist's close hand impressions of the world confab and draws some interesting conclusions.)

All the nine participating powers entered the Conference at Washington with a certain amount of idealism in the hope that international questions may be adjusted without resorting to war in the future. Hearts beat high in the American capital when the momentous announcements were made at the opening session on November 12 and many thought this would rank with August 4, 1914 and November 11, 1918 as a date of infinite importance to mankind.

President Harding's speech has been hailed as one of the masterpieces of modern oratory. The keynote of this address was as follows:

"The United States welcomes you with unselfish hands. We harbor no fears; we have no sordid ends to serve; we suspect no enemy; we contemplate or apprehend no conquest. Content with what we have, we seek nothing that is another's."

We only wish to do with you that finer, nobler thing which no nation can do alone. We wish to sit with you at the table of international understanding and goodwill. In good conscience we are eager to meet you frankly and invite and offer co-operation."

"The world demands a sober contemplation of the existing order and the realization that there can be no cure without sacrifice, not by one of us but by all of us. I do not mean surrendered rights or narrowed freedom or denied aspirations or ignored national necessities. Our Republic would no more ask for these than it would give. No pride need be humbled, no nationality submerged but I would have a merging of minds committing all of us to less preparation for war and more enjoyment for fortunate peace."

But with his speech idealism ended just as America's unknown hero was buried after a ceremony replete with deep meaning and religious reverence held at Arlington on the previous day.

Then came business. Mr. Hughes, although throwing his first bombshell of open diplomacy, which drew spontaneous applause from the delegates and the Senatorial Gallery in Continental Memorial Hall, presented a plan pregnant with dangerous possibilities. From our standpoint, he was bidding for the relief of America rather than for the relief of the world at large. If we scrutinize the whole situation.

Instead of altruistic America, we saw gradually the entry of party politics in her international dealings. We saw a great deal of self-interest at the expense of other nations just as the Wilsonian administration threw the Shantung rudder overboard when the ship at Versailles was sailing through a sea stormed by a Japanese typhoon. And China's delegation looked to America for leadership. Indeed no one who witnessed the first plenary session could have failed to receive the impression that the nations were looking to the United States to take the initiative in turning a sharp corner in diplomacy—we mean the ancient form of diplomacy of intrigue and suspicion which invariably result in war. Secretary of State Hughes' first bombshell sounded pretty well, but it soon faded into insignificance when Japan dampened the enthusiasm of the entire conference by adopting a policy of obstruction after she had accepted the terms "in principle," a phrase which has become historical on account of the treacherous significance implied by the Japanese delegation at Washington.

However, as the days went by, the American material aims were gradually brought out in bold relief. Foremost in the thoughts of the delegation of course was the reduction of naval expenditure, with which the Republican party hopes to retain their supremacy over the Democrats in 1924. Mr. Harding, Mr. Hughes and their conferees will now be able to tell the country in their campaign speeches in 1924 that their administration had saved each citizen of the United States something like $20 a piece a year on account of the ten year naval holiday. We can imagine the consequences. I do not say this to insinuate in any way whatsoever the lack of statesmanship on the part of the American executives. In fact, as patriots of the United States, they were serving their own country admirably. But as promoters of universal peace, their emphasis on this lone naval issue and their subsequent concessions on Far Eastern questions leave much to be desired.

The Japanese attitude over the naval ratio could have aroused the indignation of every one who were seeking peace and disarmament. But America, to whom the world looked for leadership, tolerated, as Secretary Hughes said at a luncheon given by a Philadelphia piper, "in a spirit of achievement." Japan wept all over the carpet for her pet toy, the Mutsu. In that same spirit of achievement, America made it a rule of the conference that whatever Japan asks for she must have. Just to please Japan, therefore, the naval strength of America and England had to be increased in order to adjust themselves to suit the original Hughes ratio.

Hence in the first grand issue presented by the American delegation, Japan rides away triumphant through a policy employed at other conferences in her slim island story. And the American delegation, after five weeks of haggling, bargaining and filibustering accompanied by fear and suspicion, is relieved when Tokyo finally gave its assent to the 5-5-3 ratio, provided she was allowed to keep her pet. A large section of the American press even felt that a great success had been achieved.

Manifestly, it was assumed that all capital ship competition is halted for the next ten years and the world may even look forward hopefully to the next stage when the folly of building these ungodly monsters may be admitted universally. But we are afraid that the fundamental cause for armed warfare is not yet removed, nor did the Washington Conference seriously attempt to remove it, and the best can be said about this effort is that it will enable the world a little breathing space or ten years within which to prepare itself for another war more deadly than ever.

Perhaps equally important in the American mind at the conference were two other issues: the abrogation of the Anglo-Japanese Alliance and the observation of the Open Door Policy in China.

The United States dreaded the existence of the alliance just as much as China and Korea did. Designed for the protection of British and Japanese interests in the Orient against Russian and German menace, the need for it after the world war no longer existed. It was regarded by American public opinion with a great deal of suspicion, which suspicion also existed among two of the British dominions, Canada and Australia. Great Britain's spokesman, Mr. Balfour openly stated that his country would run the risk of a serious misunderstanding with the United States if she did not denounce it. Undoubtedly the Japanese know it too. It was up to the conference to find a way to give it a ceremonious burial so that its chief mourners might not be overwhelmed with sadness.

The four-power entente was the answer, at least from the American and British viewpoints. Both the British and American knew the Japanese trend of thought. The Japanese desire to move in important company. They were one of the "big five" at Versailles. Then, too, it was a graceful gesture to include France in the new entanglement. France was fast becoming a second class power in the calculation of the British. The worst of it is that France was conscious of it and welcomed the opportunity of being included in the family of first class nations.

So the American statesmen thought the burial of the menacing alliance was admirably accomplished. Senator Root especially thought so and celebrated the event by escorting the delegates on a mental pleasure trip through the Pacific Islands at the third plenary session of the conference.

The remaining aspiration of the American delegation also had a material motive. The United States wants to keep the Chinese door open. So does the whole world, because China's rich natural resources are wanted by all nations. With a quarter of the human race as consumers of Western finished products, it is inevitable that China's untold purchasing powers should be a source of contention among the powers. We are afraid that America's high resolve to protect the Chinese cover only springs not so much from altruism as from her commercial interests. It is only right that she should. In this world where everything has an economic interpretation, we should not take the United States to task when she fails to carry out her idealistic plans.

The world needs in their manufacturing enterprises the raw materials hidden and undeveloped in the hills and mines of China. America's plans in this respect are not dissimilar to those of Japan, Germany and Great Britain. She is self-supporting today, but what will happen when her material and resources are exhausted? Would not she also look to China for economic expansion?

It was the American statesman John Hay who proclaimed the Open Door Principle in 1900 after the Boxer Rebellion. During the score of years that has just passed, the principle is fast being scrapped by various powers interested in China through the establishment of what is known as spheres of influence. Matters became very critical as a result of Japan's address of the infamous 21 demands on China in 1915 when the doors of Shantung, Manchuria and Mongolia were slammed shut to international competition and the famous clause of equal opportunities in commercial and industrial fields passed into history. America's aim at the conference was therefore to secure a re-annunciation of this principle and if possible, a definition which might serve to please all the powers interested in China. This was accomplished by the adoption on November 21 of the four Root proposals, the last two of which dealt with it.

Like the naval ratio, this is acceptable very easily "in principle." The big question mark which naturally rises in our Chinese mind is: How is the world going to interpret this principle? Was not this same principle enunciated in the Anglo-Japanese Alliance? The Root-Takahashi notes? And the Lansing-Jahli agreement? They did not stop nor even modify the Japanese aggression in North China; why should this present enunciation?

However, viewed from the standpoint of the American administration, this conference is a success, because it has accomplished its three principal aims: the proclamation of the ten year naval holiday, the abrogation of the Anglo-Japanese Alliance and the re-annunciation of the Open Door Policy.

Whether this view is shared by the American public or not will be ascertained when the quadruple entente and other treaties of the conference come before the Senate.

Every Middle-Aged Man's Private Opinion

BY S. E. KISER

I'll take five minutes for self-inspection:

I'll judge myself with an honest eye:

Have I any reason to let dejection bring to my lips a reluctant sigh?

True, I am neither renowned nor wealthy,

But I'm not a weakling nor in disgrace;

I'm young for my years, and I still am healthy;

Mine is rather a handsome face.

All in all, I have had much pleasure—

More than the average man has had;

I have memories, too, that I'm glad to treasure;

The record I've made is not so bad.

I have traveled over some slippery places,

But I've kept my head, and I've moved along;

Nature has blessed me with certain graces;

I'm young for my years, and I'm well and strong.

Luck has given to others chances Such as never have come to me;

I have worked and waited for my advances,

But my heart is brave and my soul is free.

I have not been numbered among the petted

Whom Fate selects for her favor—still,

I'm young for my years, and I'm not indebted

To any man for my dauntless will.

I am glad to think that I'm never jealous

Of men who still have the pride of youth,

A man is as young as he feels, they tell us,

I am full of the pep of a boy, in truth!

Many another of my years totters Sedately far from the passing throng;

I still have an eye for the comely daughters

I'm young for my years, and I'm going strong.

Marriages Gain 3.4 Pct; Divorces Score Jump Of 28

(Special To The China Press) Washington, Jan. 30.—The Census Bureau today made public statistics showing that the proportion of married men to the total population of the United States over fifteen years of age had increased from 55.8 to 59.2 percent in the decade preceding 1920.

The bureau attributed the increase to the gain in percentage of males fifteen to twenty-five years of age owing to heavier immigration, and to the growing propensity for matrimony. Divorces had increased twenty-eight percent during the period.

Household Budgets Are Discussed By Club

Addresses were given by Mrs. W. W. Bartlett, wife of the Principal of the American School, and Mrs. P. R. Bakeman and household budgets were discussed at a meeting of the American Woman's College Club that was held on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. George T. Challenor.

After the serving of tea a business session was held and Mrs. R. W. Squires was chosen to preside over the meeting. Activities of the American school were dealt with by the first speaker.

Mrs. Bartlett, after thanking the Club for its loyalty to the school in the past, enumerated ways in which it could be of service in the future by increasing the library, furnishing speakers for the girls' mass meetings, organizing hikes, volunteering as girls' guide leaders, planning holiday parties, furnishing a room in the new building, donating a scholarship, taking in pupils as boarders or for trifles, or offering constructive criticism. A glowing testimonial to the value of the school was read in the form of a letter just received from a Wellesley freshman.

Household budgets were then presented by Mrs. P. R. Bakeman of Shanghai College, who quoted the ideal budget of a "States" dweller as rent, 20 percent; food, 25 percent; overhead, 15 percent; "higher life" (including benevolence, recreation, education) 15 percent; clothing, 15 percent; savings, 10 percent. The speaker compared this with an average budget of a mainland and a Shanghai family and an informal discussion on the subject ensued.

During the afternoon's program three charming harp solos were rendered by Mrs. Levers. The next meeting of the College Club will be held on February 23 at six o'clock at the home of Mrs. F. P. Bliss. Supper will be served and a musical and dramatic program presented.

Tokugawa Says Conference Success

(Trans-Pacific News Service Exclusive To The China Press)

Tokio, Jan. 31.—Prince Tokugawa, returning from Washington, today declared that "the conference as a whole had achieved its original object."

"It has made a great contribution to the cause of peace and humanity," he said. "It would have been unreasonable to expect perfection. One should judge the results as they are, in proximity to the realization of an ideal."

"One cannot gainsay that the blow struck at the evil of competitive armaments, particularly navies, was an achievement the effects of which cannot be overestimated."

Prince Tokugawa was strong in his praise of the quadruple pact, and insisted that it sweeps away the low barometric pressure hovering over the Pacific and threatening to lead to another world war.

"The significant event of naval limitation should contribute in no small degree to the cause of world peace and civilization," he said. "From the standpoint of Japan, the results are satisfactory. Though the naval ratio leaves something to be desired, from the expert viewpoint of a statesman one realizes that the remarkable improvement in American-Japanese relations more than compensates us for what we must put up with under the circumstances."

"America has lent a sympathetic, intelligent ear to Japan's straightforward candid arguments after a fair open-hearted discussion of the problems of the two nations left them a postquadruple pact," he said. "I cannot help but feel assured that the people of Japan will be satisfied with the general results achieved at the conference."

After a talk with Minister Uchida who greeted him on board ship, Prince Tokugawa refused to be interviewed by representatives of the Japanese press. An immense throng had gathered at the pier to await the return of Tokugawa and Shibusawa. After meeting a number of prominent personages at the Tokio station, Prince Tokugawa escaped through the luggage room to a closed ing and more cordial relationship than ever before. Without such a feeling on both sides, the quadruple pact could not have been formed."

In concluding, Prince Tokugawa said that the settlement on naval armaments had been reached because the spirit of conciliation and co-operation had been far beyond the expectations of the Japanese.

"I am pleased that Japan, instead of losing an old ally, has gained additional ones under the of better mutual understanding and more cordial relationship than ever before. Without such a feeling on both sides, the quadruple pact could not have been formed."

BOOKING AT ROBINSON'S

KAPPEL'S TROOPS
NOW LACK FOOD

(Dalla News Agency)

Harbin, Jan. 26.—A report from the front discloses the deplorable position of the Kappelist army. Soldiers are left without bread for several days, and several regiments are wholly deprived of warm clothing. Dissatisfaction is growing. The unusually cold weather and the firmness of the People's Revolutionary Army utterly frustrate all offensive plans of the Kappelist command. All calculations upon the sympathy of the population have failed.

The Partisan detachments are carrying on constantly their activities in the rear of the Kappelist and destroying all ways of communications. Trains cannot go unless accompanied by armored trains. On the line from linan to Harbin three changes of trains are required for as many bridges are blown up. No end is seen of the confiscations and requisitions. The last horses are being taken away from the villages by the Kappelists. The peasants are hiding or slaughtering their cattle, not being in a position to keep them.
